One step closer for Port Augusta

Port Augusta is one step closer to the opening of a community-owned tertiary education centre next year with the appointments of two project coordinators.

Lexie Morris and Louise Foote will be the driving force behind the establishment of Uni Hub Spencer Gulf Port Augusta – a university hub providing support to those wanting to study at a tertiary level, without leaving the region.

Ms Morris and Ms Foote will work closely with secondary schools and industry to identify the local tertiary education demands. This will enable Uni Hub Spencer Gulf to work with its university partners to offer the courses that best meet these local needs.

Ms Morris said she believes that education was key in upskilling, retaining and cultivating people in the region to improve continuity in the professional work force and access to local services.

"I am excited about being able to help unearth and support the human resources we already have here in Port Augusta," she said.

Ms Foote knows first-hand the challenges associated with studying tertiary education while living regionally. She finished a Bachelor of Management (Human Resource Management) and a Master of Management (Administrative Management) via distance education while living in Port Augusta.

"I am excited by the opportunities the Uni Hub can offer school leavers and their families, people wanting to upskill, mature learners and industry," she said.

"It will allow students to complete their tertiary qualifications at home, in a supported and safe environment."

Ongoing support for Port Pirie students

Congratulations to our Port Pirie students who have made it to the halfway point of term 1 of the university year.

Uni Hub Spencer Gulf's face-to-face tutorials have been well received and planning is now underway for another round of tutorials to coincide with end-of-term assessments and exam revision.

One of the many benefits of studying through Uni Hub Spencer Gulf is the face-to-face tutorials, run by local experts in the field, tailored to the student study requirements.

TUTORIAL...Physiological science students take part in a tutorial session as part of Uni Hub Spencer Gulf's ongoing support to its students.
